LaToya Lee,
MD

SPECIALTY:
Primary Care

Dr. LaToya Lee received a degree in biology from Spelman College before going on to earn her medical degree from Meharry Medical College.

Dr. Lee sees the senior population as one of society's greatest treasures because "they have so much wisdom and deserve the best care." She chose to practice medicine at JenCare because she believes that a strong doctor-patient relationship and preventive care are key to improving healthcare.

In her spare time, Dr. Lee enjoys spending time with her family, volunteering, and watching or playing sports. Her favorite place to visit is her family's farm in Georgia because it reminds her of her history and the sacrifices that were made so she could achieve her dream of becoming a physician.
