

Understanding Balancing Equations

Color the elements of the same type to learn what numbers, or coefficients, you need to balance the equation. Then, balance the equation by placing coefficients in front of each compound. Last, label all the charges of the elements in the illustrations.

