

Language Tips

Encourage your child to use accurate grammar and complete sentences throughout the day.

A lot can be accomplished when your child/ children help with the laundry.

- It is easy to chat about recent events while folding laundry and to use pronouns. For example: "This is my sock and that is your sock."

- Learning to fold properly works on following directions and daily living skills.

- Matching pairs and creating piles teaches sorting and organization.

Best of all - it saves you time!

Definition:

Pronoun = takes the place of a noun (person, place, or thing) in a sentence. Pronouns can be personal, possessive, reflexive, or demonstrative. Pronouns can be masculine (he), feminine (she), or neutral (it) in gender and can be singular (one) or plural (two or more).

Examples:

Personal pronouns identify a person or thing

- I            - you            - he            - she            - it            - me            - him
- her            - we            - they            - us            - them

Possessive pronouns show ownership to someone or something

- my            - mine            - your            - yours            - his            - her            - hers
- its            - our            - ours            - their            - theirs            - whose

Reflexive pronouns refer to a noun or another pronoun in a sentence

- yourself    - myself            - himself            - herself            - itself            - ourselves
- yourselves - themselves

Demonstrative pronouns identify and specify particular nouns or pronouns using

- this            - that            - these            - those