Book Bash Blast!!!

The Media Center hosted our very first Book Bash Blast during the week of April 26th-April 30th. This event gave our students the opportunity to return overdue books and/or pay for their lost books. Once a student had an account that was clear of any missing books, they were given the opportunity to enter into a raffle drawing plus received an additional treat. Thank you, teachers, for your continued support with encouraging our students to locate and return their overdue books or to gather the funds to replace them. It's never too late to get a great book back or get a new book in its place!

eBooks Are Available!

Yes, our students finally have access to some eBooks at their fingertips! Please, please, please share this link with your Brick and Mortar and Digital Academy students so they can have access to their digital eBook collection immediately. Happy Reading! Link:

GALE Researching Platform

If you or your students are not familiar with GALE, then you are missing out! GALE is a researching platform that provides high quality information on numerous topics from trusted sources. Instead of Google, have your students' research with GALE. At first, students are very reluctant to try GALE because of the obvious, it isn't Google, but then they always have rave reviews about it. This may be because this database is very student friendly and turns out to be a "one-stop shop" for many research topics.

Fab 5

It is highly recommended through Leon County School District that we try our best to promote literacy school-wide during the school year. By using the FAB 5 (Phonemic Awareness, Phonics, Fluency, Comprehension, and Vocabulary) teachers can address the challenges our students are having in reading and writing.

Below are a few websites that offer more information on reading and writing literacy along with practice materials for your students.
