How can you show self control?

- I can show self-control while walking in line quietly behind the person in front of me. I can show self-control during class by not calling out the answers. I can show self-control in the cafeteria by only speaking to the friends at my table. I can show self-control on the playground by remembering to only play school appropriate games.
- I can show self-control at home by doing my homework before my parents ask me to.

This Week's Focus

Dear Parents,

Red Ribbon week has been a success! The children learned how important it is to live healthy lives and set goals for the future.

Thank you, parents who donated materials and time for our fall party. Our students had a most wonderful time. Outstanding organizing Jeanette May, our extraordinary room mom!

Unit 11 Science test is coming up soon. A good study habit is to divide concepts into manageable chunks and reward yourself when each chunk is finished. For example, simply review the vocabulary words one night. The next night, review some of the key concepts. Please help your child try this strategy when studying science.
